

In Life and In Death

When we talked about death
You always wanted to go first
I could never have imagined a life without you
And you'd say me too
Neither one of us could imagine a world without us
Two halves of one whole
Now my grim reality
Is just a hole
A yearning for you
I don't know what to do
In my dreams
You're screaming
I'm still here
Don't you see me
I'm the vivacious pink and orange sunrise
I'm every cotton candy sunset
I'm the star winking at you
The iridescent glow behind the moon
Can't you hear me
I'm our daughter's sweet melodic laugh

I never left
I am all that reminds you of me
I am the warm glow on your cheeks from the flames dancing under moonlight
I'm every winding road we ever drove Belting out our favorite lyrics together
I'm in every song that brings you to life and brings you to tears
I'm breakfast in the morning
& the smell of crisp December air
I am everywhere you need to be
I never left I just crossed over
I am yours
And you are mine
One day we will be together again
In the same way
But for now
I'm still here
In life and in death
