

St. Johnsbury House

Here on Main Street, in a small country town
Proudly stands a building with grace
And historic facts,
Where generations and years of guests
And now residents,
Have left their imprint on her walls.
She proudly stands watching
As history passes by.
She has seen it all, sadness and joy,
War and peace, struggles and freedom
Her walls hold years of history for All who want to see and hear.
As her windows look out on progress
We can look inside at the past. And as the years continue to go by
She will continue to hold all safely,
Gently and lovingly for futures
To see and hear.
